The word “innovation” is used to describe a product or development that is “new” or “enhanced” in some way. True innovation does exist and can be recognized, but it is a complex and relatively rare phenomenon that is context-specific.

An innovation can be defined as:

- an improvement, a change
- something new
- something that did not exist before
- something that is new in a specific context
- all of the above combined
- any of the above, but only when successfully implemented

Teachers can use digital platforms, such as: Facebook, Edmodo, Moodle Cloud, Schoology, Google classroom. Digital Platforms help teachers and students to create a space in which teachers and learners can connect, ask questions to enhance learning, host your classes on the cloud and create different types of assessments.

Moreover, they can use mobile learning. The development of mobile technology and the proliferation of smartphones has enabled many of us to access the internet and a huge variety of apps on the go.

Next methodic is communicating with people online. There are numerous ways to communicate online with people outside the classroom, these are some of the most used tools to communicate.

1. Skype is for doing things together, whenever you're apart. Skype's text, voice and video make it simple to share experiences with the people that matter to you, wherever they are.
2. Zoom offers you HD video, HD Voice with dynamic voice detection, full screen and gallery view, dual stream for dual screen and feature-rich mobile apps for iOS and Android

English better learning when teachers use games in learning English. Game-based learning today involves the use of computer and video games specifically aimed to produce learning outcomes. It is designed to balance subject matter and gameplay, and later assesses the ability of the learner to retain and apply the acquired knowledge to real-world scenarios.

For example, you can use these apps for improving your English:

Google Play Books

If you study English, I bet that you must be enrolled in a reading skills or literature class, if that's so, you need to start using Google Play books which is pre-installed in most android devices.

One of the greatest advantages of using Google Play Books is the free books that you can find in Google Playstore, another advantage is that you can read books in EPUB format which makes reading on your smartphone a delightful experience.

Finally, make sure to stop by Feedbooks to get hundreds of free books.

This is probably the most used translator and it comes with an offline option to use it when you don't have an internet connection.

You can translate text, handwriting, photos, and speech in over 100 languages with the Google Translate app.

I would like to advise some methods in teaching English.

Motivation The most important thing to learn a language is motivation, as in every area of life. Ask yourself why you should learn this language at all times, and remember your goal of learning the language in any situation you may have had. The most important thing is that when you learn a language, it is easy to understand that everything is simple and not too difficult. Once you have gained confidence in learning a language, you can begin learning the language.

Every day practice Currently, many language courses offer one to two hours a week, and a day-to-day linguist who does not spend time on other days usually forgets the topics in the previous lesson until the next lesson and learns that language. considerably slows down the process. Therefore, when learning any foreign language, you need to learn it daily, and every day, repetition is much faster. Therefore, if you want to learn a language well, you have to make a daily commitment; “I spend half an hour or an hour learning English every day, in any case!” Only then will your ability to remember the language increase dramatically.

Methods for explaining learning materials The subject matter taught by the teacher is to teach the concepts, laws and regulations that characterize the content of events and events. This method is more commonly used in teaching mathematics, physics, chemistry, native language, foreign language and the like. A teacher can prove the validity of a particular subject's laws and regulations by presenting facts, examples, and arguments, as well as issues and examples. Journal of critical reviews 774 It is impossible to achieve the desired goal without ensuring the active participation of students in the process. It is especially important to ensure that students participate in the discussion and generalize the material presented.

Methods of scientific research This method is not so common in the education system as it requires certain training. Under the guidance of a teacher, a student or a student will be able to conduct specific scientific research and to draw new conclusions for the subject. This method is most commonly used in universities. During this method, the process of scientific cognition takes place, that is, discovering and acquiring unknown knowledge. To do this, a research plan will be developed. The goal is set and the research methods selected. Conclusions will be drawn based on the results of the study.

Conclusion: To sum up, as stated above, learning a language is a complex process that requires constant updating and research. It is a wrong idea for prospective professionals to only have knowledge in their field and rely on the program alone. These days, colleges and schools all over the world offer offer course solely instructed in English, making it simpler for universal understudies to select in think about programs abroad. When you apply at a university you may most likely require an English-language certificate, which demonsrates you have got sufficient information to take part in classes and get it the reading material and other consider materials. To pass an English test and get certiffcate, you'll got contribute a part of time and exertion. Depending on your current English level. That's why you ought to begin planning and honing ass before long as conceivable and take the English exam early on, so you won't miss the college application deadlines. Of course, it is natural to have difficulty learning a foreign language. Teachers should keep track of where students are struggling and help students find ways to address them. The difficulty of mastering the language materials hinders the ability to master skills in all types of speech activities. Methodical recommendations are given as a guide. In fact, it is up to the teacher to partially review the amount and quality of classroom activities due to differences in student performance. The teacher's change is not about adding new units of language material, but about changing the way language is presented. Moreover, teachers should recommend students use different apps for learning English.
